REV. W. D. WESTERVELT AND FAMILY COMPLETE TOUR OF THE CANAL ZONE

Rev. W. D. Westervelt, who with his family has been visiting on the mainland for the last several months, has completed his tour of the Panama Canal Zone and returned to Honolulu on the Pacific Mail liner Korea this morning. During the stay in Los Angeles he had an interesting interview with a representative of the Los Angeles Times, to whom he recited a resume of the old Hawaiian legends, saying that some of these old island stories excel the Greek myths in imagination and picturesque quality.

As a result of the interview the Los Angeles Times carries the following story:

"The four great gods worshiped in Polynesia," Dr. Westervelt explained, "are Ku, the builder or architect; Lono, the spirit moving on the face of the waters; Kane, the thinking force, and Kama-Loa, a sort of jack-of-all-trades, who gave attention to detail work."

"The most interesting of the legendary characters of Hawaii is the demigod Maui, who corresponds to Hercules in the Greek system of mythology. He is credited with having fished up the Hawaiian Islands from the bottom of the ocean, lassoed the sun, discovered fire, painted the fish and performed other marvelous feats."

"It is related that Maui once changed himself to a bird and flew to the underworld, where he found a goddess, Makia, who was paralyzed on one side. He took away her jaw-bone on the side that was paralyzed and used it through life as a magic club and fish hook."

"Maui and his brothers, who were the first created men, went fishing in cannoes. The hero lowered the bone fish hook into the deep water. They felt the line tighten and heaved away.
Presently the land began to appear.
Maui's assistants became frightened at the sight and rowed away in their cannoes. The natives believe that if Maui's men had stuck to their task and not fled, a great continent, instead of a chain of islands, would have been raised above the surface of the water."

"There is a great cavern on the northern end of Hawaii which is said to be the hole made by Maui's fish hook when he pulled it up from the bottom of the sea."

"According to the legends, the natives complained to Maui that the days were too short. The hero prepared a lasso of vines which he threw around the legs (rays) of the sun and finally captured him. It is reported that Maui beat the sun over the head with his magic jawbone until he promised to go more slowly in his journeys across the sky and thus make the days longer."

Dr. Westervelt said that Maui's reputed discovery of fire was regarded as an achievement that was of lasting benefit to mankind.

The traditions recount that there was a hungry goddess who had fire in each of her 10 fingers. Maui took her food and each time broke off one of her fingers. When he returned for the last finger she became angry, broke off the flaming finger and threw it at the hero. His garments were ignited and he fled to the upper world.

Good Blood!

Does your heart send good or bad blood to your brain? If bad, impure blood, then your brain aches. You are nervous, restless, cannot sleep. You are as tired in the morning as at night. You have no nerve power.

Stimulants will do you harm.
What then?

spreading the blaze. This was the explanation of the volcanoes.

Before the great conflagration ceased the thoughtful Maui, his said, preserved the fire for future generations by placing it in the tree. Later it was possible to extract the fire by rubbing one piece of wood against another.

"Maui is the reputed inventor of the flying machine," Dr. Westervelt continued. "Desiring a means of quick transportation, he is said to have killed many large birds and from their skins, feathers and bones constructed one large bird with which he flew from one island to another in search of his wife, who was kidnapped by a god. Mrs. Maui was not recovered, according to tradition."

"It was in a noble quest of immortality that Maui is reputed to have lost his life. He was informed that the only way to obtain immortality was to conquer Hina-Ika, the goddess of death, who dwelt in the land of the setting sun. His plan was to approach her as she slept, crawl down her throat, cut out her heart and escape with it before she awoke."

"On this hazardous undertaking he was accompanied by a multitude of birds. Maui warned all the birds to keep silent and not awake the sleeping goddess. He approached her as she slept and entered her mouth, crawled down her throat and out her heart loose and was in a fair way to escape through her mouth with the heart when one of the little birds carelessly chirped and Hina-Ika awoke and bit the hero in two."

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste, and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "Fruit Laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile, and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic-- remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by the "California Fig Syrup Company," advertisement.

WILSON FAMILY BACK HOME FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Wilson, Miss Wilson and Miss Eleanor Wilson have returned to the White House from Cornish, N. H., where they spent the summer.

The family party, which also included Miss Jessie Wilson, has been in New York for several days. They gave their evenings to the enjoyment of the theater. With them last night at the performance of "Hamlet" was Francis B. Sayre, the fiancé of Miss Jessie Wilson. The latter did not return here today.

The White House changes and repairs were completed some time ago.
Its winter furnishings are in place and the freshening up of the main floor, retinting of the walls and of the woodwork renews its former appearance.
Several rooms have been added on the third floor by utilizing former attache space, so that the number of guests which it will be possible to entertain at one time may not be restricted as formerly to the accommodations which the second floor offered.
Changes in the layout of the garden have also been carried out during the summer.

Altogether, the home-coming of the President's wife and family was a delightful event. The glamour which the marriage of Miss Wilson next month now invests every incident of the White House seems to be felt by every visitor there. The arrangements for the happy day are said to be practically completed. In due course of time the public will be taken into a fuller confidence as to the interesting details.

Fourteen dances will be given by the brigade of midshipmen during the winter and spring social season at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, according to the schedule announced by the hop committee. The first hop will be given Saturday night in the gymnasium, and the other dates are November 1, 15 and 26 (Thanksgiving eve), January 17, February 7 and 28, March 23, April 18, May 2, 16 and 27, January 23, February 14, April 24 and May 8.

No hot stove is required, but the iron is always at the right temperature.

You are not tied to the laundry or kitchen, but can select the coolest room in the house or the porch even. You do not have to walk to and from the stove--don't have to change irons. One We-Try one and you will never be willing to iron again with a stove-heated iron.
